Request for sponsorship: The 9th COECSA Annual Scientific Congress, Bingu International Convention Centre, Lilongwe, Malawi, 21st – 23rd September 2022

On behalf of the College of Ophthalmology of Eastern, Central and Southern Africa (COECSA) and Ophthalmology of Society Malawi (OSM), I write requesting for your participation and sponsorship of the 9th COECSA Annual Scientific Conference to be held at the Bingu International Convention Centre, Lilongwe, Malawi taking place from 21st – 23rd September, 2022.

As the leading ophthalmic event within Sub-Saharan Africa, it is envisaged that the 2022 COECSA Scientific Conference will bring together over 400 delegates comprising of knowledgeable researchers, eye health practitioners and leaders to explore important topics relating to eye health. The conference is themed "Quality eye care amidst a pandemic" in recognition of the year 2022 being an important landmark for the eye care fraternity to reflect on the achievements made after having gone through the covid-19 pandemic.

As in previous years, the arrangement for this year will consist of informative discovery, translational research and scientific presentations, break-away sessions for the various sub-specialty groups as well as parallel sessions for young ophthalmologists and allied eye health professionals. Public lectures by world-renowned keynote speakers, plenary sessions and poster presentations focusing on current research and practice in ophthalmology will complement the program.

COECSA acknowledges with great appreciation your support in the past congresses and we look forward to partnering with you to make the upcoming congress a huge success. We will be grateful to hear back from you by the 30th of April 2022.

For any clarification, queries or concern please contact us via: namatecc@gmail.com or info@coecea.org and copy ceo@coecea.org.

Yours sincerely,

Josiah Onyango
